

Presentation Topic:

Cryptocurrencies – What Lies Ahead

Gabriel Angeloro is Latam Connectivity Solution Product Manager for Citi. He is also responsible for the Data Innovation Agenda.

In his current role, Gabriel is responsible for a full range of digital and mobile enabled banking platforms for cash management, liquidity investment services, working capital solutions and trade to enable multinational corporations, financial institutions and public sector organizations to operate in the most connected and efficient manner across 22 countries in Latin America and more than 90 countries around the world.

Gabriel started his career with Citi as a Senior Project Manager for Markets. Prior to joining Citi, Gabriel managed data analytics projects for an international bank and also had 12 years of experience in Banking, Retail and software industries. He specializes in business process and project management. Gabriel holds a Bachelor's degree in Economics and Master's degree in Business Data Mining.